The Calgary Flying Club: The War Years, 1939-1945

From the first Air Force pilots trained in Calgary in World War II to the demobilization at War's end, please join Calgary Flying Club historian Dave Mapplebeck as he takes you through the tumultuous years of wartime elementary flying training by the Club. We'll meet some of the heroes on the home front who overcame tremendous odds to put Commonwealth and American pilots into the fight against the Nazis.

Dave Mapplebeck has been the Official Historian of the Calgary Flying Club for 25 years. His articles about the Club's 90-year history have been published in COPA's journal and both in print and online in the Club's newsletters and social media. Dave is a Lifetime Member and Past-President of the Flying Club and holds a Private Pilot License.
