

NEXT MEETING OF THE OTTAWA CHAPTER CANADIAN AVIATION HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Canadian Army Aviation Peter Dudley

Peter's presentation will cover the post-war development of Canadian Army Aviation from 1948 to 1972 and tell the story of what it was, what it did, and what happened to it. It will include a description of the individual units, their aircraft, and the tactical procedures they used to accomplish their roles as well as the selection and training required by army pilots.

The concluding remarks will show how these twenty-four years of Army Aviation evolved into and enhanced the present Tactical Aviation organization that provides aviation resources to the Canadian Army today.
