

Turnbull Chapter Canadian Aviation Historical Society

The Canadian Aviation Historical Society. (Turnbull Chapter CAHS.), is a non-profit organization in New Brunswick and dedicated to historical research and the promotion and protection of aviation history in this province and the Maritimes. The Turnbull Chapter is managed by an elected board of directors which, in turn, chooses an executive committee from among its members.

Activities include the presentation of speakers, erecting plaques and monuments, photographic displays at airport terminals, and a display of aviation artifacts on permanent exhibition at the Don McClure Aviation Historical Gallery located in the main terminal of the Greater Moncton International Airport. Although the society's principal interest is the history of aviation in our province and the Maritimes, we invite anyone interested in the history of flight to become a member.

There are four meetings a year in the regular series, alternating between Moncton, Fredericton and Saint John. We hope to add Miramichi and Woodstock during the Summer months. Meetings are open to the general public but all who attend are invited to pay a minimal "landing fee". Meetings in the regular series are held near the end of the month in June, September and November, and March is the time of our Annual General Meeting. While a speaker is usually featured, he or she may be accompanied by a slide presentation or, occasionally, a film. In addition, from time to time we have a display of books, aircraft models and various aviation artifacts offered for sale, or simply on exhibit.

The chapter maintains a website (<http://Turnbull1922.wordpress.com/>) where summaries of its meetings, interesting articles & photos of interest to aviation history buffs as well as related research and other information are published, and all of these are reproduced in the organization's newsletter printed on a quarterly basis and sent as an email attachment or by regular post to all members who request it in that format. The web site has three editors where member's contributions for publication to the online newsletter can be sent: Boyd Trites (wbteft@nb.sympatico.ca), Jim Sulis (jsulis@nbnet.nb.ca) and Pierre Vachon (sarocloud@gmail.com).

Our meetings are always occasions where members are sure to meet other people who share their interest in aviation and its history.
